Volunteers registration is easier

Volunteers are able to register themselves in the app, provide consent for GDPR, and verify their email and phone information.

2

We have our complete database in one place

More than 5,000 volunteers from different excel files and sheets were imported by the OnSinch team to our new database during onboarding. The ability to customize the information as we needed exceeded our expectations.

Volunteers have their own access to the database

Volunteers can log into the app from anywhere. They can immediately see all listed activities, descriptions and details.

We can manage everything in one system

Before OnSinch, we had to send lengthy emails and make phone calls to volunteers. It's amazing how much more efficient communication and coordination is for us now.

We have evaluations and statistics available any time

With shift listings including detailed records and statistics, we have a constant overview of what our volunteers and our whole organization is doing. We know the actual skills and experience of our volunteers and we can use a smart rating and badge system.

The app saves up to 90% of our coordination time

It has a wide range of customisable features and has been tailored to our organization in terms of appearance and functionality. In addition, it is always up-to-date and backed up.

We are prepared for crisis situations

Thanks to the OnSinch app, we can react immediately to major emergencies and direct help exactly where it's needed.

"The app has proven to be a very good tool for us when working with volunteers, especially during the current pandemic. It allows us not only to register volunteers, but also communicate with them, keep records of their involvement and ensure registration for individual events. Without this system, we would have to email and phone volunteers, which is time-consuming and inefficient. We are very happy that we have received financial support from OnSinch, which has allowed us to use this system."

Doc. RNDr. Marek Jukl, Ph.D.

Czech Red Cross president

"The transition to the OnSinch app has helped us a lot in organizing modern nursing courses for the public. It is easier for us from an organizational point of view and more user-friendly for those interested in the course. We also promise to be more efficient in sending volunteers to help in hospitals if the need arises again."

Richard Smejkal

Commander of the Central crisis team
